The Future in BIM Enabled Integrated Project Delivery

Australian Productivity gap ‘holding back growth’

SURVEY RANKS AUSTRALIA SECOND LAST

Productivity gap ‘holding back growth’

The Australian, 1 August 2012

*“Australia ranked 50th with 10.3
points out of 100”*

What is the state of play with respect to BIM/IPD?

- Most large projects are now being specified to include delivery of an As- Built BIM Model.
- The focus is rapidly moving to leveraging the model data content to support construction delivery.
- BIM/IPD capability is becoming a clear point of difference in the marketplace.
- BIM-MEP^{AUS} is providing direction and clarity to our industry by enabling practical application of standards, solutions, tools and workflows.

What's been our charter?

- Maintain commitment and investment to our industry reform agenda.
- Develop standards, workflows and best practice guidelines
- Broaden initiative to include all services.
- Translate conceptual theories and complex technology into practical industry capabilities.

What have we achieved since our last forum?

- Built engagement across all levels of government and industry to ensure that the BIM initiative ultimately becomes the key platform for building services design, delivery and FM.
- Established a formal software management committee to fast track development.
- Developed best of breed foundation standards and specifications.
- Released the BIM-MEP^{AUS} Autodesk Revit Template add-in.
- Developed and piloted a BIM-MEP^{AUS} 101 Training.
